RELIGIOUS EDUCATION PROGRAM SCHEDULE

December 17-Confessions in church Grades 3-8

Students in grades 3-8 will meet in church for Advent Reconciliation. Students will sit with their class and attendance will be taken. Parents must accompany their children in church.

Grades 1 and 2 are off on Dec. 17th.

Why is the Advent Candle Pink This Weekend?

The third Sunday of Advent is traditionally called Gaudete Sunday. Gaudete is the Latin word meaning "rejoice."

This Sunday is so named because "Rejoice" is the first word in the entrance antiphon for Mass this weekend which is taken from Philippians 4:4,5: "Rejoice in the Lord always; again I say, rejoice! The Lord is near."

We mark this Sunday on our Advent wreath with a pink candle instead of a purple candle. The Church brought the Lenten practice of rose vestments to Advent on Gaudete Sunday. This Sunday is a joyful reminder that our salvation is near.

How is Jesus inviting you to experience greater joy this Advent?

FAMILY PRAYER THIRD WEEK OF ADVENT (JOY)

Gracious God, as we light the third Advent candle of joy, may the joy of your salvation fill us with gladness. Help us to share this joy with others, especially those in need.

In Jesus' name, we pray. Amen."

WINTER WEATHER AND PARKING -

PRZYPOMNIENIE DOTYCZĄCE PARKOWANIA

Now that winter weather has arrived, we want to share a few important parking lot reminders to keep everyone safe.

Park only in designated parking spaces. It is important to keep the circle drive at the front entrance clear at all times to allow room for emergency vehicles.

Also, bear with us for snow removal. We do not have control over when the plows arrive, so use your discretion and extreme caution when coming to Church and Adoration. Thank you, and let's all stay safe this winter!

Uprzejmie prosimy, aby nie parkować przed głównym wejściem do kościoła, w miejscu, gdzie znajduje się hydrant przeciwpożarowy, ani na zaokrągleniu chodnika. Parkowanie w tych miejscach jest zabronione i może stanowić zagrożenie w sytuacji nagłej.

Prosimy o korzystanie wyłącznie z wyznaczonych miejsc parkingowych na parafialnym parkingu, szczególnie w okresie zimowym, kiedy odśnieżanie oraz ograniczona widoczność wymagają jeszcze większej ostrożności.

Dziękujemy za zrozumienie i współpracę

St. Joseph's Corner

*Are you the one who is to come, or shall we look for another?
—Matthew 11:30*

This Sunday, Gaudete Sunday, we are reminded to rejoice, for our salvation is near. Yet I begin with a question from this Sunday's Gospel—a question spoken not by a wavering beginner in faith, but by St. John the Baptist, the greatest of those born of women (Mt 11:11), the fiery forerunner whose whole life pointed to the Lamb of God.

And yet here he is—in prison. And from that dungeon, the light looks different. From that dungeon, he sends disciples to Jesus with a question that seems almost unthinkable: “Are You the One?”

It is startling to imagine these words coming from a man so consumed by his mission that he leapt for joy in the womb, who baptized the Son of God in the Jordan, who declared before all Israel, “He must increase; I must decrease.” But this is precisely what makes his question so important. Even the greatest can feel disoriented when the walls close in. A dungeon, literal or metaphorical, changes the way we see. Long stretches of darkness can make God seem distant. Suffering or uncertainty can shake even the most disciplined heart.

And if we allow it, that experience of absence can begin to distort our perception—and eventually, our resolve.

But here lies John's greatness: He does not stew in confusion. He brings it to Christ. He sends his disciples not with a complaint, but with a question rooted in relationship. His doubt does not lead him away from Jesus; it drives him toward the One he proclaimed.

This is the Advent invitation.

God is Still at Work, Even in the Dark

The darkness that obscures John's view of the Truth exists in our lives, too, and it goes by many names. St. Ignatius called it spiritual desolation. St. John of the Cross refers to it as the dark night of the soul. Yet the answer throughout every Christian spirituality remains the same: Persevere, for even though you may not notice, God is at work.

Jesus responds to St. John the Baptist in kind: the blind see, the lame walk, and the deaf hear. Not a mere list of miracles, but evidence that the kingdom advances even when you cannot see it (cf. Mt 11:4–5; Is 35:5–6).

And this remains true for us. So much of the spiritual life is spent in seasons where the work of God is subtle, hidden, or easily overshadowed by our circumstances. We seek answers, but God offers presence. We seek freedom from our dungeon, but God fills it with grace. We seek clarity, but God gives Himself.

This is where St. Joseph becomes our model. Joseph's life unfolded almost entirely in shadows—dreams, silence, sudden detours, hidden years. Yet his holiness rested on a deep, steady trust that God was acting even when he could not understand the how or the why. Joseph did not need the whole plan because he had the presence of Christ. And that was enough (cf. Mt 1:20–24; Mt 2:13–15; 19–23).

The Path Forward for Husbands and Fathers

As we prepare our hearts for Christ this Advent, let us remember a truth John the Baptist had to rediscover from his prison cell: Christ is already here. Whether we feel His presence or not, whether our circumstances brighten or remain dim, God is unceasingly at work in the depths of our lives.

Joy does not come from having everything resolved, controlled, or perfectedly ordered. Joy comes from the steady conviction that God is acting, even in the places that feel burdensome, confusing, or unfinished. The Christian life is not built on emotional clarity but on trust in the One who cannot fail.

Christ's message to John was simple, and it is His message to us: Look again, and see. See where grace is moving. See the small signs of healing and renewal. See the ways God is carrying your family, strengthening your vocation, and shaping your heart—often in ways that only become clear in hindsight.

As husbands and fathers, we must remember that questioning is not weakness. What matters is where we bring those questions. John brought his to Christ, not away from Him. The same must be true for us. Our doubts, our discouragements, our anxieties about work, family, faith, or our own inadequacies—none of these disqualify us from discipleship. Instead, they become the very places where Christ wants to meet us.

So let us approach Him honestly, without pretense, without self-protection, without trying to manage our spiritual life on our own terms. And let us pray not simply for what we want, but for the courage to receive what He offers—the grace we truly need.

If we do this, we will discover what John discovered, what Joseph lived, and what every saint eventually learns: Christ is faithful in every dungeon, present in every darkness, and active in every heart that turns toward Him.

And this is the foundation of a husband's joy, a father's strength, and a family's peace.
